In this book, Rabbi Michael Lerner and activist Terry Rockefeller draw on their decades of experience in social justice movements to offer a unique and inspiring vision of sacred activism. They argue that activism is not just about working for a particular cause, but about living a life of love and compassion.

Sacred activism is about using our passions and our voices to make the world a better place. It is about standing up for what we believe in, even when it is difficult. It is about working together to create a more just and peaceful world.
