Step into the vibrant and witty world of Restoration Comedy, a literary genre that flourished in England during the late 17th and early 18th centuries. Blackwell Essential Literature presents an exceptional collection of Restoration comedy plays, offering readers an immersive and insightful exploration of this captivating era.

A Literary Masterpiece: The Intriguing World of Restoration Comedy

Restoration Comedy emerged as a vibrant and influential literary form in the post-Restoration period. These plays, characterized by their sharp wit and satirical edge, reflected the social and political landscape of the time. Playwrights celebrated the return of the monarchy and reveled in the newfound freedoms and indulgences of post-Puritan society.

The plays of Restoration Comedy are a testament to the literary brilliance of the era. The language is a dazzling display of wit and repartee, while the plots are intricate and engaging, filled with mistaken identities, romantic entanglements, and social satire. The characters are larger-than-life, embodying the excesses and foibles of the Restoration court.

Blackwell Essential Literature: A Treasure Trove of Restoration Comedy Masterpieces

Blackwell Essential Literature's Restoration Comedy collection brings together some of the most celebrated and influential plays of the era. These carefully selected works offer readers a comprehensive overview of the genre and its diverse range of styles and themes:

- William Congreve's *The Way of the World: A masterpiece of wit and social satire, this play explores the complexities of love, marriage, and the pursuit of wealth in Restoration society.
- John Dryden's *Marriage à la Mode: A biting comedy of manners, this play skewers the hypocrisy and superficiality of upper-class marriage.
- Aphra Behn's *The Rover: A thrilling and adventurous play, this work features a strong and resourceful female character who challenges societal norms.
- George Etherege's *The Man of Mode: A witty and sophisticated comedy, this play explores the fashionable world of Restoration London and its obsession with status and appearance.
- Sir George Etherege's *The Comical Revenge: A clever and entertaining play, this work delves into the themes of love, revenge, and the complexities of human nature.
- William Wycherley's *The Country Wife: A raucous and bawdy comedy, this play satirizes the hypocrisy and sexual double standards of the Restoration court.
